BANK TELLER BERGER'S EXPERIENCE WITH THE NOTED CRIMINAL.

Chief Harrigan Waited on by a Big Dele gation of an Unusual Character-Jeremiah Bennett Illustrates the Kindness of Illinoisans to Horse Thieves-The "Gen." Insists on Requistion Being Secured.

In the ante-room of Chief of Police Harri gan's office to-day was gathered an assem blage such as has not been seen about the Four Courts for some time. It was a gathering of Illinois farmers, who had called to dentify "Gen," Neff, an account of whose arrest yesterday under the name of Brown was published exclus-in the Post-Disparch. Neff horse thief, 72 years old, but has an honest, good-natured German face, which has aided him greatly in his business. He was arrested in the Fifth District yesterday by Detectives Harrington and Gocking on suspicion of stealing two cows. When he was brought to the Four Courts last night Chief Harrigan recognized him although it was twenty years since he saw him. Neff has a record in police circles of being of the most expert horse thieves the West. He does not look of operations has been in lilinois, it is said.

THEY WANTED THE GENERAL.

About 11 o'clock a number of visitors were announced to see the chief and looking up Secretary Fred Lucas beheld a batch of long-coated, broad-hatted, big whiskered farmers, led by an old farmer of muscular proportions with an old farmer of muscular proportions wit a gray beard, the mustache and a little under the mouth being shaved. "Is this the office of the Chief of Police?"

asked the old man who acted as spokesman.
"Yes," replied Secretary Lucas.
"Is the Chief in?"

"Yes, but he is engaged. He is talking to Gen. Neff in his private office."
"Yen. Neff i'vexicalmed the old farmer,
"Why that's the man we called to see. Say, look-a-here, you'd better let us have Neff.
We can get more out of him than the Ch'ef of Police can," and the old farmer ejected a mouthful of tobacco juice into a cuspidore. The old farmer looked around at his followers as he spoke, and a grim smile went around.
"Has Neff stolen something from you?" was asked of the old farmer, who gave his name as Jeremiah Bennett of Bennett-Coal Pil, two miles this side of Lebanon.
"Yes," replied the old man, who had taken a chair, "he stole a bay mare from me that I bought from Nick Miller here," pointing to one of the men who was with him. "This my son Daniel," continued farmer Bennett, indicating a black whiskered man about 40, who sat on a table behind his father holding a cigar between his fingers. "Yes, but he is engaged. He is talking to the Chief of Police can. We'll know how to make him squeal."

HOW THEY TREATED THOMSON.

"I'll tell you how we handled a horse thief once," went on old man Bennett, directing his remarks to Secretary Lucas. "He was caught in St. Louis, and we brought him back. His name was Thomson. On the day of the trial the witnesses all stayed away, and he was discharged and turned loose. We picked him up about 200 yards from the Court-house."

"What did you do with him?" asked Secretary Lucas, as the old farmer stopped in his story.

O, that's all that's to it," said the old man, as he took a fresh chewiof tobacco.
Chief Barrigan came out of his private office, as the story was finished, and the old farmer again suggested that Neff be given to them.

"I'll do it," said the Chief.
Neff will not go back without requisition papers and will be held here until they are procured.

Neff will not go back without requisition papers and will be held here until they are procured.

Daniel Bennett said he had seen Neff and that he was the same man who had passed himself off as Dr. Brown and who stole his father's mare.

Bank Tellers Berefer's experience.

In addition to the farmers there also called at the Four Courts to-day W. E. Berger, teller of the Jefferson Bank in this city. Mr. Berger said he lives in Lebanon. On Sept. 24, he said he was going home on the train, and went into another train, leaving some packages behind. When he came back they were gone. A passenger pointed out a man as having them and Berger accosted him and got the packages, he said. He called the stranger at hief. When he got to Lebanon the stranger got off too, and as Berger was passing a dark place, he said the stranger struck him in the head with a blunt instrument, the but of a revolver he thinks, knocked him down and fired at him.

The capture of Neff, and of his fight for liberty, which was thrilling in the extreme. Detectives Harrington and Gocking, when informed of the loss of Dairyman Finke's cows, went to all the slaughter-houses and butcher shops in the western part of the city and thus traced the cattle and caught Neff, or Brown, as he called himself. Gocking, who arrested him, got into the buggy was finally overturned and Neff was arrested by a patrolman. A reward of $450 for Neff's arrest has been offered in several towns of $51. Colair County, Ill. Neff was sentenced to sevenieen years in the Chester Penitentiary from Carlyle, Ill., in 1882 for horse stealing, but he escaped in 1886, and stole several horses on his way to St. Louis. He was arrested here for disturbing the peace, and was identified and revenier and to Chester. It is not known whether he has completed his term. When arrested yesterday he had in his possession a bay mare, the property of a Mr. Benedict of Lebanon, the utility of the city and the peace, and was identified and revenier and the peace, and was identified and revenier and the pe

A WATERY WASTE.

Disastrous Floods in Northwestern Wash-

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 22.—Reports of the storm throughout the State are still worse to-day and the prospects are that rail com-munication will be abandoned for several days at least. A number of additional deaths are reported as a result of the floods, while the loss of property, in the shape of farm buildings carried away and wrecked, will make a very formidable item in the valleys of make a very formidable item in the valleys of Duwamisch. White, Green, Black, Stuck, Cedar and Puyallup. The rivers to the southward of Snohomish, the Still, Agumish and Skagit, northward, are vast lakes.

In the Stuck Valley, as far as the eye can see, the valley is a seething lake, on which logs, shingle boits, wrecked buildings, rall-road ties, uprooted trees and debris are jammed together ten or twenty feet deep, and it is feared that the new county bridge will be carried away.

and it is feared that the new county bridge will be carried away.

In Chehailis County, near Elma, the Northern Pacific railway bridge is such a wreck that trains dare not cross until the high water recedes. Additional wash-outs on the Northern Pacific main line between Seattle and Tacoma and on the Portland Route are reported, and no trains have arrived to-day or are liable to arrive for several days. Long trestles have also been washed out.

The same state of affairs is reported on all.

eral days. Long trestles have also been washed out.

The same state of affairs is reported on all other lines. There were several more landslides reported yesterday. To add to the already bad condition of the roads, there have been several wrecks.

In valleys and along the railroads water covers the tracks in many places for long distances to the depth of ten feet. The Great Northern Railroad will not be able to run trains until the bridges have been repaired, the slides removed and the track renewed. The Seattle, Lake Shore & Eastern Railroad runs trains to the international boundary, but transfer must be made around the slide at Blackman.

but transfer must be made around the slide at Blackman.

Three or four steamers have been reported suak in the Shohomish River but no lives are reported to have been lost. Large steamers are carrying passengers to Whatcom to make connections with the railroad. J. M. Moider's farm hands are reported to have been drowned last Saturday near Shohomish. Prof. Galiard, wife, son and niece, and boatman, all adults, are believed to have been drowned as their boat was found yesterday on an island. They left Everett Friday afternoon for Marysville and have not been seen since.

Many farmers throughout the entire western portion of the State have lost all their stock by drowning, and none in the rich and extensive valleys have escaped from loss. The damage to the agricultural districts will amount to many hundreds of thousands of dollars. It certainly has been the worst rainfail that has ever been experienced on Puget Sound, and the rain having set in again, it is liable to cause additional loss, several additional small towns along the railway lines are under water and some singlestory houses are entirely submerged. It is believed when telegraphic communication is resumed the reports will come in from the worst flooded localities of many lives having been lost and much stock killed. Though no information has yet been received the Shohomish Valley will doubtless suffer the same as the others and the valleys of the mining districts will meet with similar disaster. Another train wreck is reported on the Seattle & Northern, up the Sagit Valley, through running on water-covered track, but no lives have been reported lost. Kitkas County will sustain a heavy loss in the destruction of the bridges over the Yakima River, and other counties are sure to be damaged by the floods. Reports from British Columbia are to the effect that the valleys in that country have met with a similar disaster.

CLEVELAND'S VACATION.

The President - Elect Fleeing From

Harassing Cares. NEW YORK, Nov. 22.-President-elect Cleve land left town to-day in search of a much needed rest. A newspaper representative called upon Mr. Cleveland this morning. In speaking of the resolute necessity of relief from the annoyances and exactions which are his daily lot at home, he said:

"Many of the callers whom I have been obliged to receive would not, I think, have encroached upon my time if they had given the matter a moment's reflection. Those who have called upon me to talk about offices, it seems to me, have been a little inconsiderate and certainly premature. I desire to give as much publicity as possible to the statement that I do not propose to consider applications for offices prior to my inauguration, and I shall avoid all interviews on that subject. Those who, under any pretense, gain an opportunity to present their applications orally, and those who burden me at this time with written applications, cannot possibly do anything which would so interfere with their chances of success. Written applications will be so little regarded that I doubt if they ever see the files in Washington, for there is no reason or decency in my being overwhelmed with such matters at this time."

On being asked how long he expected to be away on his vacation Mr. Cleveland replied:

"As to that I am not certain; it will depend upon various conditions. I expect, however, to be absent about two weeks and when I return, unless I am somewhat relieved from the unnecessary demands upon my time to which I have been subjected here thus far, I shall shut up my house in the city and find some more quiet place to spend the winter. Certainly between now and the dath of March I ought to have some time to devote to other matters than receiving callers and considering subjects which should be postponed." and certainly premature. BERLIN, Nov. 22 .- Great interest has been throughout Germany in the speech that the Emperor would make in opening the Reichstag to-day, and the whole nation has been anxious to learn what his majesty would have to say concerning the army bill and other national matters. The ceremony of opening the session took place in the Knights' Hall of the Royal Palace, and was performed with the utmost pomp and splendor. Emperor William read his speech opening the session. His majesty, in reerring to foreign affairs, said:

'In view of the friendly relations with al the powers and the consciousness that in pursuing a common end we shall continue to enjoy the effectual support of the allied States, I cherish the hope that Germany will not be disturbed in her peaceful endeavor to promote her ideal economic interests. A the same time the development of the milltary power of other European States, imposes on us the serious, nay, imperative duty of strengthening the defensive capacity of the Empire by thorough-going measures. In the face of these developments it is only by carrying out the tried principle of universal military service that we may expect those qualities in our army on which its strength and glory are based, and which will maintain for Germany the position of honor she has occupied among the powers in the past. Unanimously fired with this conviction, the federal powers propose to you the adoption of a bill, which, while modifying the peace effective, renders possible the utilization of our detensive to the fullest extent. In this matter you will not fail to recognize the magnitude of the sacrifice by the nation. You believe with me that the necessity for sacrifice will be increasingly recognized and the patriotism of dens that must be borne for the honor and security of the Fatherland.

"In order to lighten these burdens so far as possible the period of service. In the army will be reduced to the extreme limit, which from a military point of view can be conceded. At the same time more extended raining and the employment of younger men for the military service will not only essen the much felt inequality in the fuifillnent of military service, but will also diminish the economic military disadvantages arising from the older class of men being called to serve. "In order to enable the Federal States to make budgetary provisions for the means required to strengthen the army, it becomes necessary to open up new sources of revenue. With this object bills will be placed before the Bundesrath for the further taxation of beer and brandy, and also for the further taxation of bourse transactions." In conclusion his majesty said: "In inviting you to enter upon your labors,

It is estimated that the new taxes will reach 58,000,000 marks. The army bill requires a capital expenditure of marks and an annual expenditure of 64,000,000 marks. It is expected that the Government will be obliged to adjust matters by modifying the dimensions of their military scheme or by the exactions of large contributions.

MONETARY CONFERENCE.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 22.—The international monetary conference met at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The proceedings were purely formal. No more charming place could have been selected in all Brussels for the meeting of the conference than the Palaise des Acade mies. The grande saile, or marble hall, where the delegates hold their meetings looks out on one side upon the splendid park, which is the fashionable summer resort of the residents of Brussels, and while the view sweeps along the front of the Palais Royal to the Rue Royale on the other side, a wide expanse of garden, statue adorned, divides the Palais des Academies from the Place Regente, a continuation of the finest of the boulevards of Brussels. The the finest of the boulevards of Brussels. The delegates will find themselves within easy walking access of almost everything worth seeing in the Belgian Capital. The Palais de la Nation, where the deputies meet, is just across the park from the Royal Palace. The Bourse, the Art Museum, the Cathedral (8t. Gudulep) the Palais des Beaux Art, the Musee Moderne, the new Palais de Justice and the finest of Brussels' edifices—the Hotel de Ville—are all within a radius of a mile of the place of con ference. The interior of the hall in which the delegates deliberate is one of the handsomest in the capital. Marble shafts along the walls, with strikingly effective paintings between them, form the dominant features of the hall. Twelve of these paintings, all of or the hall. Twelve of these paintings, all of recent production, represent a sequence of great events in Beigian history from the doubtful historic episode when the Belgian tribes under Ambeorix swore to beat back the Roman invaders or to perish, until the coronation of the first King, Leopold, in coronation of the last king, Leopold, in 1831. Other mural subjects picture the rise of arts and sciences in Belgium. If the delegates choose to study them they will find the story and art of Belgium made easy and pleasant for them. In the gardens abutting on the conference hall the most notable of the statues are a study of Cain by the sculptor lchatte, and a discus thrower by Bessels. The countries which have accepted the invitation of the United States Government to send delegates to the conference are Austro-Hungary, Belgium, Franco, Germany, Great Britain, Greece, Italy, the Netherlands, Portugal, Roumania, Russia, Servia, Spain, Sweden and Norway and Switzerland. Few men in Hungarian circles are better known than Fr. Kossaiko and the report that he had absconded created a decided sensation. During the past year he had gained considerable notoriety through the newspaper Keednota, of which he was the editor. His radical statements involved him newspaper Acconora, of which he was the editor. His radical statements involved him in trouble, frequently resulting in his arrest and conviction for libel. For this he served thirty days in jail at Pittsburg. He returned home about a month ago and was given a royal welcome. He assumed his old position at once, but trouble with his newspaper associates caused another rupture. On Friday last he left, ostensibly to visit Wilkesbarre. His prolonged absence and rumors that he had gone to Bremen caused the trustees to make an investigation of his affairs. It was then discovered that $3,200 of the church money, which had been on deposit in the Hazleton National Bank, had been drawn by him. Other moneys which were supposed to be in the safe at the parochial residence were missing.

AN OLD MURDER RECALLED. Christian Sellers, was begun yesterday afternoon before Judge Wolfe. The crime is shrouded in mystery and stands almost without a parallel in the criminal catalogue. The home of David Sellers was about eight miles from this city and the family consisted of father, mother and one grown daughter. With them at the time was a hired man, William R. Hobeck. The house was set on fire and David Sellers and Christina Sellers were burned with the house, but the bodies recovered bore evidence of wounds before the fire sufficient to cause death. The inquest developed the fact that the parents were murdered and the house burned afterward. The matter was a mystery, although suspicion rested against the daughter, Chice Sellers, and the hired man. Since the occurrence the young man married the daughter and they now have several children. "Have you any points to submit?" asked the court of the counsel for defense.

"My office boy is writing them up," replied Mr. Marshall.

office boy came in a moment later and handed his employer a roll of manuscript. Mr. Marshall then submitted a number of law points, one of which was that where it is certain one or more persons commit a crime, but it is uncertain which, all must be acquitted.

Attorney Patterson said that the latter point did not apply to the case on trial. He maintained that individuals present when a killing takes place are principals and are all guilty of murder and not the particular one who fired the shot that killed. He claimed that it was totally unnecessary for the prosecution to prove that the defendant fired the particular shot that killed. Connors.

Attorney Marshall followed Mr. Patterson with a long argument in support of his Joint committee of the street Department and the Board of Public Improvements bad another tussle with the new Union Depot matter at their meeting this morning, and after several ineffectual attempts at last succeeded in adopting and signing a unanimous report, *Commissioner Murphy brought the matter up. He had two different reports which he mitted to the committee, but was mately obliged to draw up still a ultimately obliged to draw up still a third report, which was finally adopted. The full committee consisted besides Mr. Murphy, of Commissioners burnet, Fechter, Scathard and Able.

Commissioner Murphy read several extracts from Councilor Marshall's opinion, delivered to the committee several weeks ago. He pointed out that even if the board approved the plans as submitted that action would not give the depot company power to do anything contrary to the ordinance. He thought the board was in duty bound to take some definite action one way or the other. Its approving the plans now did not necessitate its giving a certificote when the building was completed. Irrespective of what action the board might take the Street Department would look to it that the Depot company did not trespass on the city property.

Commissioner Burnet read a letter from company and not trespass on the city property.

Commissioner Burnet read a letter from Dr. Taussig, received some months ago, acknowledging that the strip in dispute was dedicated to the city and stating that the depot company had no intention of trespass ing on the same.

Commissioner Murphy here submitted to the committee a report adopted at a previous meeting but signed only by three of the members, approving of the plans. He also read a report he had prepared approving of the plans with the exception of that portion of the building that projected on the 15-feet strip. Both were rejected after some desultory discussion, on a suggestion of Commissioner Fechter, a new report was drawn up as follows:

Your joint committee on Street Department and

Your joint committee on Street Department and Public Binidings, to whom was referred the plans of the new Union Depot, respectfully return the same with the recommondation that they approve the plans to far as they comply with the provisions of ordinance No. 15,080.

This report was signed by each member of the committee. The matter was brought up t the afternoon session of the Board of Pub-c Improvements and was adopted unannously.

Joseph Schnoider Attempts Suicide Be-cause of His Sweetheart's Coldness. Cupid's poisoned arrow cleaved the heart cause of His Sweetheart's Coldness.

Cupid's poisoned arrow cleaved the heart of Joseph Schneider. Miss Anna Brown, his sweetheart, agravated the wound with cold rebuffs in return for his declarations of love, and the youthful baker in a rash moment decided to emigrate to the land where human passions are chilled. This is the reason why Schneider shot himself in the abdomen last night in the rear of No. 1512 Cass avenue.

The story of Schneider's love for Anna Brown is romantic, even if it did sprout and grow in a baker shop. Schneider is 21 years old and resides at No. 504 South Jefferson avenue. According to his statements, made in German, to the hospital physicians, he went to work in the baker shop at No. 1512 Cass avenue some time ago. There he met Anna Brown. Schneider saw how well she could knead bread, make cakes, draw candy and prepare sweetmeats in general, and he concluded that she was the helpmate for whom he had been searching. He therefore made loving overtures to her, which she received in a diplomatic manner. He became more ardent in his affections, and doubtless he looked to an early setting of the day when he and Anna would be improper for him to remain employed in the same shop with Anna. What occult rule of courtship put this idea in his head is not known, but, at all events, Schneider save up his position a short time ago. Last Saturday night Anna dissipated all his dreams, and according to his statements drove nim to suicide. He escorted her to a ball, where he fondly believed that she was to be the queen of the belles. He would monopolize her dancing programme and allow no other lieuu Brummel to inscribe his name thereon but himself and a friend of his. He therefore asked Anna to dance with his friend as well as with himself, But Anna not only refused to dance with schneider's friend, but even discarded the young baker himself. Schneider took her home in silence in the early hours of sunday morning and in the evening he called to have an understanding. She sent word to him that she was no

The Bimetallists Have Already Taken the

ists have already taken the field. They claim to be preparing for the elections two and four years hence, respectively. Gen. A. J. War-ner, President of the Bimetallist League, issued a circular yesterday entitled "The Coming Issue." In it the Republican policy of tariff protection is reviewed and the point is made that the effort to protect that home market exclusively for home producers has not resulted in general prosperity, but on the contrary has engendered monopoly, has not prevented the continued fall in prices nor relieved the mass of the people from the evils of increasing debt and taxes caused by the continued increase in the money stand-

The circular then proceeds to explain why the effort of the coming administration will also prove futile in the direction of bringing prosperity to all. The evil, it says, cannot be cured by tariff reform or a protective tariff. The only remedy is to stop the increase in the value of money.

Gen. Warner's address closes with this paragraph:
'The next issue, therefore, will be the money question. Nor will this issue be long delayed. Its suppression by the two cated on the money question faster than the coliticians think. Now is the time for bimetallism to organize and push to the front the issue of free bimetallic coinage."

FORFEITED HIS LIFE.

Allen Harrison Hanged for Murdering Hetty Adams.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 22,-Allen Harrison was hanged at 2:15 p. m. to-day.

The crime for which Allan Harrison was executed was committed April 2, 1892. He was a good looking young man, aged 21, of peculiar habits and of strong likes and dislikes. He became enamored of pretty Hetty Adams, the 17-year old daughter of Frank Adams, a prosperous farmer living near Ona in this county, and when she repelled his advances he determed that he would kill her and then commit suicide. He purchased a bottle of laudanum and secured a revolver. He swallowed the drug at his home and then went direct to the home of the girl. He found her bending over the kitchen stove engaged in building a fire. No one was near and, stealing in close, he fired a builet into her heart, killing her instantly. He slipped away quietly and went home to die, but the drug had weakened by age and when the excited neighbors drauged him from home he was soon brought out of the stupor into which he had failen and placed under arrest for murder. The affair created great excitement and a lynching bee was narrowly averted.

placed under arrest for murder. The affair created great excitement and a lynching bee was narrowly averted.

The next term of the Circuit Court tried and convicted Harrison of murder in the first degree. Judge Harvey sentenced him to be hanged in September. The case was taken to the Supreme Court on a writ of error and execution of sentence was postponed, but after extensive argument by his counsel to establish the insanity plea, a new trial was refused and a special session of the court convened at which Harrison was sentenced again to be executed Nov. 22, 1892. A strong plea was made to Gov. Fleming to commute his sentence to life imprisonment and an immense petition was sent in by the people, the shoriff of the county heading it and interceding in behalf of the condemned man, his belief in the Insanity plea being strengthened since the confinement of the prisoner in fail. After mature deliberation the Governor decided not to interfere with the execution of the prisoner.

They do not sleep or eat well, wake more tired mornings than when they retire, their stomachs are out of order, bowels constipated, liver torpid, and the kidneys may be affected, giving pair and weakness in the back, while the water appears unnatural and often has a sediment. But the principal symptoms are the nervousness, and weak, tired and prostrated feeling.

A lady of our acquaintance, Miss Annie Oakes, who resides in Athol Conter, Mass., has been a great sufferer from nervous affections, and thinking that her experience, and especially how she succeeded in curing her troubles, may be of great service to those of our readers who may be similarly suffering, we give below her own words in regard to the case: "I suffered from nervous and physical prostration, Already reports are in circulation of the abandonment of industries and threatened reductions of wages as a consequence of a proposed reform of the tariff. This was to be expected because undeserved advantages are not willingly surrendered and a privilege or monopoly breeds selfishness and cowardice in its possessor. But the threats of the Olivers of Pittsburg and the "judgment" of B. F. Jones and others who have been drawing abnormally high profits from a helpless people will not proceed to execution.

The pretense that business will be seriously disturbed by depriving those men of their privileges is not worth a moment's consideration. No fair and legitimate profits earned in open competition will be disturbed, but to hesitate to abolish a system of plunder for fear it would bring on a business convulsion is much like permitting a pickpocket to continue his nefarious practices because to stop him would throw him upon the State as a pauper.

If the position maintained by the Dem ocratic party for the past five years is tenable a moderate reduction of duties will not really hurt anybody, because it does not injure one to deprive him of something to which he is not entitled or does not earn.

The discussion of this question, however, has been so thorough that no great purpose. alarm will be felt over the whinings of the timid or the threats of the Pennsylvania plutocrats. The plain duty of the Democrats is to redeem their pledges at the earliest possible moment and have results to show when they face the country in 1894. If they falter or hedge or postpone action until a few months before the next election defeat will almost surely follow, because uncertainty is sure to produce business depression. Democrats know their duty. Let them do it and without

WANTED-A HERO.

The Republicans are just now casting about for a leader. The late election so shattered their recognized idols that it will be impossible to collect the fragments and restore them to their proper form. Harrison won't do, because his defeat has verified the prophecies and so strengthened the influence of the faction headed by Quay and Clarkson and Platt that they can easily defeat his renomination. Reid won't do, because it has become clear that though astute and successful as bosses, intriguers and workers, are so deficient in the higher qualities of statesmanship and so free from the restraints of moral responsibility that no party can afford to openly accepting any one of them as a recognized leader. Depew, a brilliant phrase maker and spirited speaker, is too shallow for the serious role of subduing factions and restoring confidence in a beaten and confused constituency. Sherman is too cold and mathematical to arouse enthusiasm, and Foraker is a mere blower of tin horns and tion." babbler of billingsgate. Napoleon Mc-Kinley would be available but for the THERE is really no call for alarm over double load of pensions and protection, the latter. Like Issachar, son of the crouching down between two burdens" bowing his shoulder "to bear and become > a burden unto tribute." So in the language of the poet, the old party now wants a hero, but as heroes rarely spring from the palaces of plutocracy and the nurseries of protection it will be difficult to find one.

EPHRAIM HARRISON.

Why should there be newspaper appeals to the Republican Senate of the Fiftysecond Congress to modify the McKinley tariff? Would not President Harrison veto passed?

Mr. Harrison is the man to lead in any Republican movement for the relief of the country from high-tariff exactions. If he retuses to do anything it is a waste of time for his party to undertake the work. It is the general belief that Mr. Harrison is too narrow a man to consider for a moment that the people may be right in the verdict they have given against the policy of protection. He declared that they were wrong in 1890, and there is no reason to suppose that he now believes less firmly that they have made a mistake.

It is not apparent to Mr. Harrison that the protection policy is rotten. He does not perceive that it bears within itself the seeds of death. He does not realize that it adrilley as Consultor spain at San Francisco can have no permanent place in the hearts Mr. Adrilley, while among us, should amend of a liberty-loving people. He imagines that in 1896 the decision of 1892 will be reversed, and that there is yet another term of the Presidency for Benjamin Harrison. Has not the corpse of Dr. Depew THE new President is so pressed by call- risen from the bier to assure him of a

Elijah would softly drop them into the waste basket and return to his official mutton, which is so soon to be passed to one of his political fees, leaving Elijah to the care of such benevolent ravens as may happen to fly his way.

No; there is no hope of reform from within the Republican party. Ephraim Harrison is joined to his idols, not knowing that they are to be smashed. The tariff must be reformed by the Fifty-third Congress, and there must be no delay.

The high tariff is immoral. It is unprogressive.

It must go.

THE truth about the Republican campaign fund is leaking out little by little. The latest installment is that Matt Quay demanded $30,000 of Chairman Carter to pay some old debts left over from the campaign of '88 and that Carter refused. Whereupon, in characteristically highwayman fashion, Quay prepared two interviews, one predicting Harrison's election, the other his defeat. These were submitted to the Chairman, who was asked to decide which one should be published. Carter weakened and the ex-Treasurer got the money and went back to Beaver. There is nothing improbable in all this, although it is only rumor. Mr. Quay is a statesman who lives and moves and has his being in boodle. The subscribers to the fund who are threatening an investigation will no doubt unearth some juicy facts if they carry out their

THE combination in the Kansas Legislature by which a Democrat is to be made Speaker and a Republican elected United States Senator is not a rational way of registering the straight-out Democratic attack upon himself unless he can protest against fusion, nor will it remove prove the signing of the notes. Yet in face of from the men engaged in it the suspicion that they are assistant Republicans had the masked as Democrats. They did what a little they could to prevent an anti-Harrison victory in the State and are now working as zealously in the plutocratic interest. They are Republicans without the manliness to avow themselves such. And if they carry out their nefarious designs they may make a defeat of the great Democratic victory by helping the Republicans to a majority in the Senate that will veto all the efforts of a Democratic President and

As there is no present prospect that this country is to be driven to hostilities with any other, and the militia has been found ade quate to suppress high-tariff labor outbreaks, why should not Lieut. Peary be allowed a year or two in which to carry the flag to the North Pole? If the Pole is ever to be discovered we shall feel humiliated if the discoverer is not an American. So long as Samuel's empty treasury is not to be drawn upon beyond the payiof an army officer for our Arctic expeditions, there should be no great amount of opposition to hyperborean enterprises. Not only is it right that Lieut. Peary is to be allowed to go, but he should be tendered the use of President Harrison's ice-wagon to convey his provis-

An Eastern wit says: "The man who dis on the end of a lead pencil made a clean $200,000, but the man who discovered that the proper study of mankind is man died poor." The reason of this is plain enough. The man who discovered that the proper study of mankind is man, did not study man sufficiently to know that what man needed and needed right away, was a rubber tip to Yow Has a Witness Who Handled the Foerstel Notes.

Charles Creighton Declares He Saw the Name Signed.

HE SAYS THE TREASURER INDORSED ONE IN HIS OFFICE.

The Other, He Claims, He Took to Foerstelville and the Treasurer Signed It in a Back Room There-A Conversation in Which Mr. Foerstel Is Represented as Discussing His Debts-The Treasurer Refuses to Talk-Comptroller

When the suit of Money Lender Sandford N. Barton against City Treasurer M. J. Foerstel for the recovery of $7,200 on four notes which the Treasurer says are forged, comes up before Judge Fischer, decidedly the most interesting figure on the witness-stand will be W. F. Yow. He was Mr. Foerstel's agent in all the financial transactions between the Treasurer and money lenders, and negotiated with Mr. Barton the four notes on which appear the indorsements said to be forged. He is a North Carolinian by birth, and has the musuclar frame of all raw-boned, hunters along Currituck duck Sound and thereabouts, with the mild and steady eye of most of the Southern countrymen. His experience on the police force, where he came into daily contact with detectives and criminals, taught him how to distinguish between the several grades of felons, and he understands probably that a forgery can be made a very serious thing for the man who utters it. He understands, too, that the declaration of Treasurer Foerstel that the notes bear this situation, which it might well be supthis situation, which it might well be sup-posed would make a man very nervous who had the most complete confidence in himself. Yow is carrying on a little restaurant and chop-house business on Ninth street, waiting on custoin the place as housekeeper.

YOW HAS A WITNESS. His behavior from the very first has indicated that he did not apprehend any disagreeable results to himself from the investiga tion. Yow's attitude, under the circum stances, has been so remarkable that the POST-DISPATCH reporter asked him if he could substantiate his claims that the signatures are genuine by other witnesses.
"Oh yes," said he, "that will all appear on the trial." He spoke with an indifferent air, like a man who felt sure of his ground.

on the trial." He spoke with an indifferent air, like a man who felt sure of his ground. Yesterday afternoon Yow brought a reporter face to face with this witness. His name is Charles Creighton. He used to be a porter at the Southern Hotel, and later still was a saloon-keeper on Market street. He is now a solicitor in the city for the Waukesha Hygela Mineral Water Co. He is a young man, about 80 apparently, and is rather slender. His complexion is light, and so is his mustache. When the reporter saw him his mineral water wagon stood at the door of Yow's chop-house, and he was eating pie and drinking coffee served by Yow's daughter. "This man saw Foerstel sign some of the notes he says are forged," Yow said to the reporter, indicating Creighton with a nod of the head, and then turning away to serve a customer with sandwiches.

SAYSHE SAW THEM SIGNED.

"Why, yes," said Creighton, "I did. I've often taken notes to Foerstel from Yow and brought them back to him signed."
"Were you in the habit of taking them to

"Both," said Creighton. "Sometimes I went to the office and sometimes to Foerstel-"Both," said Creighton. "Sometimes I went to the office and sometimes to Foerstelville after him. I remember two of the notes Barton has perfectly well. One was for $4,500 - 11m pretty sure that was the figure — and the other was for $2,200. The $2,200 one he signed at his desk in the room of his office, and the other one he signed in the back room at his place in Fourstelville. I don't see how there could be any doubt of his signing them see him?"
What was that first note I took to Foer stelville?" said Creighton, appealing to Yow, who shook his head, as if not remember that time Foerstel

"What was that first note I took of Foerstel's telville?" said Creighton, appealing to Yow, who shook his head, as if not remembering. "Well, any way, that time Foerstel told me that he needed some money because he was paying out $7,000 a month on those buildings out there."

"You mean $70,2" Yow corrected.

"No, he said, $7,000," insisted Creighton.
"Can you explain the conduct of Mr. Foerstel in this matter?" was asked of Yow.
"No, 1 can't. I don't know what to make of it. I was just telling Charley the same thing when you eame in. I can't imagine what he means. I did hear that he said the notes were forgeries because he know! was away. You know it was four days after he heard they were in the bank before he came out and said they were forgeries. I think too, that if the whole thing hadn't come out he would have paid the notes. I know that last Saturday Barton came to see me and seemed to be greatly elated. He said that some friends of Foerstel's had been to see him; that was several people running backwards and forwards from one to the other, and he thought that Forestel would pay in a few days. Then the Post-Disparton published the whole thing and that spoiled the arrangement."

EDDIE FOERSTEL AS A SPRITE.

"Do you still owe Mr. Foerstel the $6,600 he says you borrowed from him?"
"I owe him some of it. I don't know how much."

Has he any security?"

"Has he any security?"
"No, he hasn't," said Yow calmiy. "We were first-rate friends and had confidence in each other. If he wanted money I got it for him, and if I wanted any he got it for me. Out of the $7,200 on those notes Barton holds, and the notes for $6,600 he paid for me, he and Eddie got about $4,500, I think; how much more I can't tell exactly."
Just then the forms of two men darkened the front of the chop-house. Yow and Creighton looked up.
"There's Eddie now," said Yow, placidly. The former moved away. Yow walked to the door and looked out. The Treasurer's son had disappeared. Next to the chophouse a sigh with J. H. Vette & Co., Money to Loan, swings by the door that opens on a narrow staircase. Yow's eyes rapidly ran up and down the street, came back to the sign, and then rested on the door satisand. Then he went back to his chop-house and Creighton came out, got into his wagon and drove off.

An effort was made to interview Treasurer Foerstel on the story of Creighton. In strong An effort was made to interview Treasurer and drove off.

An effort was made to interview Treasurer Foerstel on the story of Creighton. In strong contrast with the manner of Yow the Treasurer has been from the beginning reluctant to discuss the notes he says are forged. He received the reporter in his private office, where he was signing city bonds, and the occupation gave him an excuse to keep his back toward the questioner.

"Yow has —" the reporter began.

"Now here," said I reasurer Forestel, going on signing the name whose curves are making all this trouble, "I've said all I am going to say about this matter. It will do no good to talk about this in the papers. It will all come out in the courts. I shall say not another word."

COMPTROLLER STEVENSON'S STATEMENT.
In regard to the suggestions made recently that the Grand-jury should examine the books of the Treasurer, Comptroller John D. Stevenson said to-day: "That is all bosh, and it comes from people who do not understund how the city keeps its accounts. Under our system of book-keeping it would be impossible for any City Treasurer to be short twenty-four hours without the knowledge of the Comptroller. He not only gets daily morning by inquiring friends here. Schnei der, it will be remembered, disappeared from his home, 2743 Caroline street on Sunday, Nov. 5, and on Tuesday, Nov. 7, Mrs. Schneider received a letter from her missing husband, in which he said he was in East St. Louis, and at 8 o'clock that Tuesday night he would jump from the big bridge because, as he said, he could not kill all the snakes in the country. Schneider was a stonemason about 36 years of age and was working at the Anheuser-Busch brewery when he left. He gave up his job to take a hand in politics in South St. Louis, where he is well known, and the strain on his constitution seemed to be too great, for his letter indicates that he had 'snakes' on Nov. 7, just before the election. When he took his departure he left a wife and three small children, and to the wife he gave the task of raising money to meet notes on their home, which is being paid for on the installment plan. It was said that Schneider went away with another woman. He was seen in a saloon, not two blocks from his home, on Tuesday night, Nov. 7, at 8 o'clock, the hour he said he would make the death leap from the big bridge. Mrs. Schneider said she did not believe that story. He went away for a change she thought, as he and she did not believe that story. He went away for a change she thought, as he and she did not get along very well together. He would sleep at home, she said, but he very seldom ate his meals there, and seldom spoke to her. Mrs. Schneider put the matter in the hands of the police, and told them to notify her if any floaters were picked up out of the river, though she was quite sure he did not jump in. This morning a letter was received from K. Krahenleuhl, a stonemason living at 23 Newton street, Chicago, which throws the first light on the dark mystery of Schneider's disappearance. Krahenleuhl says he noticed in the St. Louis papers the mysterious disappearances of a stonemason named schneider, and as a man had just gone to work on the Chicago University now in course of construction he inquired of Lewis Stevens, the der, it will be remembered, disappeared fro his home, 2743 Caroline street on Sunday

This morning a suit was filed in the United tates Circuit Court by Nathan O. Ross trustee, against the city of St. Louis. This suit is one of a series brought against a number of cities for alleged infringement of a patent for tripping and recording mechanisms in use in engine-houses. The petition states that the invention was made by Robert Bragg, who transferred his interest to others, who are now represented by Mr. Ross. A suit was successfully maintained against the city of San Jose, Cal., and afterwards a number of other cities were sued. The petition asks for an injunction and damages.

The odds were immensely in favor of his speech being filled with generalities. When Delahaye mentioned the t was supposed he referred to Baron Reinach whose death startled the world of politicians, with whom his relations, direct and indirect were extensive. He was the head center of a sort of syndicate of press and parlimentary wire-pullers for the Panama Canal Co. who are down in the schedule as having eaten up in one set of affairs nearly 000,000 and in another set a not much smaller. at once. The President rapped for order, but nobody seemed to heed. The melee was more general and disgraceful than any witnessed in the Chamber during the present republic.

Deputies called each other thieves, and followed the insulting words with a challenge to the death. No less than three challenges were given for duels. M. Alexis De Launey, moderate Republican, and deputy for Beauvais, challenged Antine Germain, deputy for Trevoux, and member of the Left Center. Boissy-D'Anglas, member from Ardeche, challenged M. HARASSING FLOQUET.

The Cocarde repeats its accusation against M. Floquet, declaring that it gave the wrong date in making its original charges in order to entrap M. Floquet. It also threatens to publish compromising documents. As the editor, however, must got prison five days hence unless he pays a fine recently imposed upon him, which he seems unable to do, very little importance is attached to his threats. He has been a constant whre puller in his campaign against public men. When M. Floquet spoke in to-day's debate his voice was choking with passion. At the close of the debate M. Hubbard was seen trying to reach out to strike M. Deroulede, who was being restrained by his friends. A fight between M. Cassagnac and Bolsey d'Alglais was also prevented by the interference of other deputies. M. Floquet sank exhausted into his chair. The noise was deafening.

At a plenary meeting of the Republican members of the House of Deputies to day it was decided that the commission to inquire into the affairs of the Panama Canal Co. shall consist of twenty-three Republicans, nine Into the affairs of the Panama Canal Co. shall consist of twenty-three Republicans, nine Conservatives and one Boulangist.

The summonses issued on M. DeLessep and the other defendants charged them with having by means of fraudulent tactics and with the view of inducing belief in the existence of a chimerical event and imaginary credit, dissipated moneys raised by issues of stocks entrusted to them for a determined use, thus swindling others out of their fortune. The proceedings on Friday will be brief, the resident of the commission merely calling the names the accused. It is reported this afternoon that M. DeLessep is seriously ill. The newspapers concur in the opinion that a parliamentary inquiry is absolutely indispen-stopped. The Civil Tribunal of the Seine appointed provisional administrators.

A committee of the French Chamber of Deputies was directed to examine into the affairs of the company with a view to the completion of the canal with the uid of the credit of the French Government, if such a plan was feasible.

In December, 1800, an arrangement was effected with the Colombian Government by parties interested in the canal, in accordance with which the time allowed for its completion was extended for a further period of ten years, on the understanding that a new company should be formed to take over the entire assets of the old one and that the work of construction should be actively resumed before Feb. 2,8 1833.

For this concession the promoters agreed to pay 10,000,000f in gold and 5,000,000f in shares of the new company, besides providing for a quard of 250 soldiers to protect the canal during construction.

Just after dark the next night Burke and Anderson met on Prescott and Harris avenues. They caught sight of each other at the same moment and both drew their weapons at the same time. They stood at short range and fired at each other about three times. Burke fell with a bullet in his abdomen and Anderson ran away. Officers Lee and Smith were not a block away when the shooting began and when they ran up to the spot several bullets from Burke's revolver whistled by the time the officers arrived and emptied his revolver at them. Officer Smith knocked the pistol from his hand and placed him under arrest while Officer Lee started in pursuit of Anderson. He caught him trying to climb a fence, and as he still held the revolver he fired on him. Anderson surrendered and went with the officer to the station. THREE BONDS FORFEITED.

They May Be Collected. Three bonds were declared forfeited by Judge Castleman in the Criminal Court this morning when two defendants failed to anmorning when two defendants failed to answer to their names, and there is some prospect of the bonds being collected. The first was that of Albert F. Finch, who is awaiting trial on a charge of making an assault to kill upon Augustin M. Daly by shooting him through the leg on March 14, 1992. The bond was forfeited in May last, but on the appearance of Finch with a good excuse for his absence the forfeiture was set aside. A new bond was given on Sept. 19 with Charles A. Gitchell, President of the Municipal Trust Co., as surety in the sum of $890. Finch failed to show up this morning and a forfeiture was again declared.

The other two cases were those of Gabriel Kohn, who is charged with receiving stolen property. On Aug. 9 he is charged with receiving a watch and chain which was stolen from Louis Manges of 2844 South Ninth street, and on Sept. 2 of receiving two gold watches stolen from Mrs. G. W. Hutchings of 1808 Lafayette avenue. Justine Burkhart, a professional bondsman, at Sixth and Clark avenue, went on the bond of Kohn in both cases, one for $800 and one for $500. Kohn failed to appear this morning and the bonds were forfeited.

Marriage of Harrison Drummond to Miss Pickett of Edwardsville, Ill.

GUESTS FROM THIS CITY LEAVE ON A SPECIAL CAR.

The Church in Which the Ceremony Was Performed Beautifully Decorated With Chrysanthemums-The Bridal Party-The Reception and Costumes Worn-

The Ecott-Dougherty Nuptials. St. John's Church at Edwardsville, Ill., was this morning the scene of a brilliant marriage ceremony in which St. Louis society circles were specially interested. groom, Mr. Harrison Irwin Drummond, is the son of Mr. James T. Drummond, the wealthy tobacco manufacturer of this city, and a young business man himself of promise. and the bride is Miss Mazle Prickett, the beautiful young daughter of Mazie Maj. William R. Prickett, the well-known banker of Edwardsville. At 10:15 o'clock this morning a special car pulled out of Union Depot filled with wedding guests from the city one hundred in number, and arrived at Edwardsville in ample time to see the cerenony, which was celebrated at high noon. For this occasion the pretty church had been transformed into a floral bower, with the queen of fall flowers, chrysanthemums, howing everywhere, and pink for the color tone. Long before the appointed hour the church was filled with the wedding guests, who enjoyed an elaborate musical programme prepared specially by the organist, Prof. Armstrong, for this happy occasion. Promptly at 12 o'clock the first notes of Lobengrin's Triumphant Bridal Chorus, signalled the approach of the bridal cortege. groom accompanied by his best man, Mr. Eben Richards, entered from the chancel and awaited the coming of the bride with her maidens; altogether with their pink and white toilet they made a beautiful procession and tableau at the altar. Misses Pogue and Trares wore lovely gowns of pink chiffon, with large Gainsborough hats, covered with pink chrysanthemums, and carried immense bouquets of the same gorgeous flowers, tied with long, pink satin ribbons. Miss Mary Drummond of Alton and Miss Springer of Chicago were gowned in white chiffon, their large hats garlanded pink chrysanthemums, and carried same flowers. Their escorts were the ushers, Messrs. Finlay, Paddock, James Drummond and E. D. Prickett. After them came the bride's little niece, Virginia Clara Burrows of New York, frocked in pink satin bratton of the marriage service, by Rev. W. Ravenscroft, the organist played softly, an old Scotch ballad, and the beautiful strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March accompanied the footsteps of the newly wedded pair as they left the church. The wedding ceremony was followed by a charming reception at the handsome home of the bride's father. There, too, the queen of fall flowers reigned supreme; plak chrysanthemums entered into all of the decorations, which were very elaborate, save sering agranture of heliotrope veivet emoroisered in gold, an algrette of diamonds conning her hair.

Mrs. O. L. Taylor of St. Paul, aunt of the ride, wore a reception robe of ruby tinted elvet and silk. Mrs. F. L. Hadley, the ride's aunt, wore a lovely confection of reen peau de soie and lace with jewels of peals and diamonds. Mrs. James T. Drumond was gowned in lusterless black silk. Its. John N. Drummond wore a gown of rich lack brocade, with fine laces and diamonds. Among the guests from a distance were r. and Mrs. Alex Burrows of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Burrows of New York, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Taylor of St. Paul, Mrs. eorge Partridge of Minneapolis, the Misses pringer of Chicago, Miss Haskell and Miss remstrong of Monticello Seminary.

Among the guests who went out in the recial car from St. Louis were Mrs. J. T. rummond. Judge and Mrs. James eddon, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Littender, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. They preceded the maid of honor, Miss Drummond of Alton, who wore an exquisite gown of pink embroidered chiffon over pink satin, with hat and bridal posey like those of the bridemaids. Last came the fair bride, leaning upon her father's arm, gowned in a picturesque robe of the Directoire period, made of heavy white satin, veiled with chiffon, and garniture of pearls, the very short waist defined by an elaborate girdle of pearls. In her hand she carried a large bunch of white English violets. Over this lovely tollette fell the bridal veil of tule, like a mist about her,

Car Famine Renewed.

SIOUX CITY, Io., Nov. 22.-Reports from the car famine, which was thought to be ended three weeks ago, is again making itself felt, and now bids fair to surpass in extent that of recent date. All the elevators and that of recent date. All the elevators and grain houses are stated to be crowded to the fullest capacity, and thousands of oushels of wheat are loaded in wagons for lack of a better place of storage. Railroad officials say it is impossible to provide cars as fast as wanted. On the Chicago & Northwestern over 500 cars have been distributed in the last few days on one division and the movement afforded but little relief. fall flowers reigned supreme; pink chrysanthemums entered into all of the decorations, which were very elaborate, save the bower in which the pair stood to receive the congratulations of of their friends. This was of smilax and pink roses. An orchestra from the city played a choice selection of music throughout the appointed hours, and Pechman served a delightful repast from a beautifully appointed table, of which the decorations were of tone, coleur du rose. The wedding cake favors distributed to the guests were bon bon boxes of pink moire, with the monogram in silver,
There were some very elegant tollets worn at the wedding. Mrs. W. R. Pickett was gowned in silver gray bengaline, combined with amethyst velvet, and wore diamond ornaments. Mrs. Alexander Burrows of New York City, sister of the bride, wore a charming Paris gown of primrose yellow brocade, with garniture of heliotrope velvet embroidered in gold, an algrette of diamonds confining her hair.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 22 .- A wealthy Chinese merchant of this city, speaking of the expected closing out of the larges Chinese houses which were reported las night, said that the firms in China which had night, said that the firms in China which had been backing the large Chinese houses here had become alarmed at the anti-Chinese legislation in this country, and had concluded to withdraw their capital invested here. The same merchant, speaking of the Chinese population on the Pacific coast, said that in the past year it had decreased one-third. He said that not a steamer had sailed from this port for China for months past that had not taken from 300 to 500 Chinese; an average of less than fifty were coming here on steamers.

OUR ONLY M'NICHOL.

Let politics go as they will
We keep our local favorites still;
Whichever party takes the cake,
Ourselves we never fail or break
The wheel revolves around up here,
We grow in worth from year to year,
Because, aithough cash is not plenty,
We're better off than one in twenty.

We need no money, man to man, We deal with the installment plan; We deal with the installment plan; Our wives, our children, never roam, They flud the shelter of a home. The lamp burns bright, the hearth is warm, We keep them safe away from narm; Poor as we were, we're rich indeed, Because there's nothing that we need.

The men who spend their lives in talk Must some dark by way learn to walk; It does no lasting good to gain Their end, for after follows pain. But happy he who plainly lives Surrounded by what fortune gives, And luxury, comfort, ease, to speak Of what he pays for by the week.

O, nowhere else on earth you'll get Such chances to keep out of debt, And buy the things you need the most, The best on sale without a boast. McNichol never fails to sell Nuch articles as pay you well. You'll never feel the strain, my friend, You'r wanderings, too, will quickly end.

San Francisco cleared last week 163,000 bu wheat. The English visible is estimated to have decreased 0,000 bu. The amount of wheat and flour on passage is now 10,000,000 bu smaller than one year ago. Private advices by cable from France say crop respects are really alarming, owing to the drouth. Last week's imports into the United Kingdom were 236,000 bbls flour, 2,224,000 bu wheat, 772,000 bu be injured.

New York grain quotations are now furnished the Exchange by Mcintyre & Wardwell of that elly, through Geo. H. Small.

The clearings from New Orleans yesterday were 40,000 bu wheat to Liverpool, 41,500 bu wheat and 37,000 bu corn to Rouen.

Northwestern wheat stocks, outside country warehouses, are 17,004,139 bu, an increase for week of 1,380,000 bu and 6,160,000 bu larger than one year ago.

1, 380,000 bu and 6, 100,000 bu isrger than one year ago.

The Chicago Evening Post says: Official estimates of the Russian crops are 247,650,000 bu, wheat, an increase of 54,500,000 overlast year and 632,480,000 bu, rye, an increase of 193,500,000 bu.

Cash No 2 corn was wast on Call at 39c sellers, but a demand for Nov developed there that finally bid 395g. This made the teads believe a deal was working in this month, but if developed later that it was only a commission man vishing to get a customer out who was short, and she only way to get ithe Nov was by snatching for every five offered, and they were few and far between. they were few and far between Farmers say that the prevaling weather is injurious to the young winter wheat plant, which is unprotected by snow in the greater portion of the West. They say the damage by freezing and thaving is done in the fall, contrary to the prevailing opinion which credits spring with the disastrous work. A correspondent in Southern Illinois says farmers in that part of the country look for only about one-fourth of an average wheat crop next season. Late news of interest from the other side is that the Russian markets were generally easier, with crop prospects improved and with offerings of Russian cash wheat increasing saying that in his provinces the conditions were very serious. Not only the wheat, but rys was ruined, and the peasants were aimost starving. In addition to an absence of food there was an aimost complete absence of fuel. It is a little curious to note that while Russian official reports have been quite bearish the Russian private advices seem aimost uniformly buillish.

Weather conditions to-day: Freezing temperature

Weather conditions to-day: Freezing temperature extends as far south as Memphis. Tenn., this morning. The temperature in the Upper Mississippi and Missouri Valleys has remained nearly stationary, except colderin Northern Minnesots, Weather is fair thoughout the country except on Lakes Superior, Erie and Ontario, where light flurries of snow have occurred. The pressure is still unusually high in occurred. The pressure is still additionally the North and Northwest, which will prevent any decided change of temperature in this section during the next thirty-six hours. Forecast for Missouri and Illinois: Fair; stationary temperature. and Illinois: Fair; stationary temperature.

Dae wheat was freely offered to-day both here and in Chicago. The longs for that month are afraid the 3,000,000 bu contract in stock here and the 10,000,000 bu in Chicago will be delivered and the unless the difference contract in stock here and the new temperature of the state of the made at 78gc difference.

Prime's report: Central Illinois reports very slow.
Progress has been made with gathering corn; yield and quality look very disappointing; some fields making 40 to 60 bu, others 30 to 40 and still others 10 to 20. Last year the average was 40 to 45 bu per acre. Very little corn being contracted for and none shelled yet. With good weather, two weeks more will complete gathering in Nebraska. There is no improvement to mark either in quantity or quality Yield will not exceed an average of 20 bu per acre. Last year the average was over 30 bu. No contracts being made except for futures, which is not at any fixed price.

The Mark Lane Express in its contract of the contract

Last year the average was over 30 bu. No contracts being made except for futures, which is not at any fixed price.

The Mark Lane Express, in its weekly review of the British grain trade says: The deliveries of English wheat from the general quality is very low, though during the last few days the condition has slightly improved. An advance of 2d is recorded in Mark Lane, where a small business has been done, centering chiefly on the best foreign wheats and embracing nearly all the Pacific Coast wheat. Prices of foreign wheats, however, have been kept down, owing to large exports from Russia. Themild weather led to a decline in bariey to 24s. in oats to 13s, and in corn to 16s. At to-day's markets English wheats were from. American wheat held for the divance. A few sales were made at 3d advance. Foreign wheats were unchanged. Good American flour was 3d dearer. There was little sale for barley, oats and corn, and the price of each was down 6d.

Abel Rey writes from Paris under date of Nov. 8: The depression in our trade is as bad as on your side. Flour and wheat are lower to-day than they have been since 1887. Stocks in Paris are in fact on the increase. There is now less chance of importing foreign wheat than ther was a few months ago. Our gross imports were of course larger principilly, through Marseilles, thut most of them were re-exported in the shape of four to Switzerland, showing is only instructed and where the wheat sowing is only just beginning, after the harvest of the beet. I don't forsee an improved demand from France before March, and this will depend much on the prospect of our growing crop.

both Mr. and Mrs. Deacon shall be allowed to visit her. Mr. Deacon was ordered to pay the costs.

Mr. Deacon stated to-day that the latest offer made to him by his wife's lawyers was that she would not oppose an application by him to the Court at Aix for an absolute divorce; that she would surrender all the children to him, and also at once drop the name of Deacon. Mr. Deacon says he would giadly accept a compromise in order to spare his wife the ignominy of standing in the dock at Aix and would allow her to keep the baby as long as she led a moral life, but he doubts whether she would keep her word. Possibly an arrangement will be effected before Dec. 8, when the case opens at Aix.

Airs. Deacon's brother has written a letter to the papers stating that under advice of her lawyers his sister has never, since the beginning of the unhappy affair, said anything to either the American or the French press. Mr. Deacon, on the French press. Mr. Deacon, on the contrary, has never ceased receiving reporters, and has paid certain journals to publish garbled accounts of the affair. He has also succeeded in closing the papers against his wife and her friends. Her silence and his unscrupulous loquacity have blackened her character on both sides of the Atlantic. The brother adds: "Hence it is that I speak for the first time. If I were to relate the cases of his crueity to my sister, his drunken acts, his insults to her friends and his conduct toward her four little girls I would require columns. My family have persuaded her to bear all rather than to make public her domestic troubles. Mr. Deacon is convinced that she will demand a divorce sooner or later, and he is determined to prevent her from getting one in her favor. Herein lies the real cause of the shooting of Ablelle, beacon wishing to fix upon his wife the stigm of adultery. A few days before the tragedy Mr. Deacon opened a drawer in his wife's desk and destroy her."

The Charges made against Mr. Deacon are denied by his friends.

Edwards & Sons: the incipiency of the Minneapolis convention to the close of the campaign Douglas was an undignified, rampant politician in the service of President Harrison. His speeches to the negroes were those of an alarmist. He ignored with renacious consistency the fact that the protective tariff prostrated the growth of cotton and of other Southern staples in which the colored people are exclusively engaged. He knew Mr. Cleveland through his four years' administration as well last June as he does now in November. Mr. Douglas' sincerity would have been equally creditable if he had said before Nov. 8, as he says now. 'I am sure that he (Cleveland) will give no support or encouragement to lawless violence anywhere. On the contrary Mr. Douglas strenously advocated the enactment of the force bill, and was among the principal men at Minneapolis who insisted on its incorporation in the Republican platform. It would have been as well for him to have said in those days that the election of a Democratic President could bring no change adverse to the negro's interest. The fact is that not one negro in the United States is alarmed at the election of Mr. Cleveland. Yesterday afternoon Scott came into Huber's saloon and asked for a glass of beer, throwing down a $2-bill. Huber gave him the beer and counted out $1.95 change. Scott, it is alleged, grabbed up both the bill and change, and ran out of the saloon. Huber followed and caught him, when Downey and Bryon, it is stated, came to Scott's rescue, and the three made their escape, but were captured by Officer Pat Cremins after a chase of two miles.

JUDGE MORRIS REBUKES BROCK STORTS

An Attempt to Represent a Prisoner Without His Consent.

"William Daly, come out," said the Deputy Marshal in the First Dis-trict Police Court, and a man who appeared uty Marshal in the First District Police Court, and a man who appeared to be a laborer walked from the cage to the bar. He was charged with disturbing the peace, and his looks told that he had been on a "bat" last night. Brock Storts stepped forward and speaking a few whispered words to the prisoner asked the court to continue the case until tomorrow, which was done. As Daly went back to the cage Depuly Marshal Ruppert told the court that he had asked for an attorney as he stepped out of the cage to go to trial and that he had not employed Brock Storts. Judge Morris recalled Daly and told Brock Stocts to come forward. He asked Daly if he had employed Storts to defend him and Daly replied that he had not. The judge turned to Brock and asked him what he meant by attempting to defend prisoners who had not told him to represent them. Brock explained that he had understood Daly to say he wanted him to take his case. Daly admitted that he had talked with Brock, but he denied that he had talked with Brock, but he denied that he had talked with Brock, but he denied that he had the prisoner's case without his knowledge when he has some money in the hands of the deputy marshal. Judge Morris the next time he caught him indulging in such practices he would disbar him.

It is common with some Four Courts lawyers to take a prisoner's case without his knowledge when he has some money in the hands of the deputy marshal. Judge Morris is on the alert for cases of that kind and intends to putting a stop to them. Daly had no money on him when arrested, but he is a laboring man and has friends who are willing to pay a lawyer when they know he is in trouble.

Judge Morris was told who she failed to answer to her name and continued the case until this morning, giving instructions to the Marshal at the same time to have the mother in court today. She was present when the case was tiffy. Between her sobs and tears she told a simple story of how her son John came home drunk Sunday night and beat her. He also Morris fined him $20.

The question came up on a rule to tax the Marshal's commission up on a rule to tax the Marshal's commission of 2½ per cent, the amount of Gaines' judgment againt the city. Last June the claim of the Marshal, amounting to $23,000, was filed but to this the city took exception on the ground of prematurity. This the Court sustains and continued the case to the present term to await the settlement of the judgment by the city, but proceedings were stopped by the Marshal filing a motion abandoning the case and discontinuing the rule.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 22 .- After being in two railroad wrecks during his journey resident Nick Young of the Base League has got home, and says he: "No more Chicago meetings for me, and I doubt if I care to take in the World's Fair. Hereafter Gotham will about suit me, and a majority of the League base ball magnates, too.

"As a result of the conference of the backers of the national game, with a view to increasing the batting work, it is quite likely that the ball will be livelier and the pitcher's box moved back several feet. This seemed to be the conclusion of the magnates, although the subject of changing the playing rules was left to the discretion of Messrs. Brush, Byrne and Reach, who will report the result of their deliberations at the spring meeting of the League, which will be held in New York City.

"It is all poppycock," continued President Young, "to talk about changing the appearance of the diamond, not five persons in a hundred being in favor of such a proposition. We talked it over informally, to be sure, but the general opinion was that it would not inure to the benefit of the game. Base bail has reached a stage of perfection which no changes in the diamond could possibly improve.

"So far as salaries are concerned it was agreed to let every club regulate its own affairs, although it was not denied that the past season would have been much more profitable had it not been for the high grade salaries which the League people were com-pelled to shoulder. These contracts were made before the amalgamation of the Amer-ican Association and the National League, and had to be lived up to. Take the proposed

Three favorites, one second choice and a third choice carried off the purses. The La Masneys' servia was the favorite for the opening scramble at 3 to 5. After a drive with Ansonia, Grace landed Servia a winner by a head. Reserve was first choice in the second event at 2 to 1, while Preston B. was liberally supported at 13 to 5. John B. third, choice at 4 to 1, defeated the favorite by at least a length. Hunley S. at 2 to 1 and Mount McGregor at 7 to 2 carried most of the money bet on the next event. Mount McGregor just did win by a head, after a drive with John Irwin, a 50 to 1 shot. Lilian and Jean Lessley were equal first choices at 5 to 2 for the handicap, with $t. Mark second choice at 4 to 1. The field of five that started ran close all the way around. At the wire Lillian was a head in front of 5t. Mark, who beat John G. for the place by the same distance. to use the imitations of Pearline? Some trifling prize, cheap prices, or because the grocer or peddler says "same as" or "as good as?" What do these amount to, if your things are ruined in the washing? They may be. And you can't see the damage that a dangerous washing compound is doing, until the damage is done; with the poorest, that takes some time. With these imitations that nobody knows about, you have to take your own risk. Be on the safe side, and use only the original-Pearline. Millions of women can tell about that. Ask some of them, and
